

Explore skilled trades with The Women in Trades Program

Powered by the Canerector Foundation

Coming this Fall 2024!

The Women in Trades Program powered by the Canerector Foundation is designed to provide insight into potential careers in trades and technology.

The program's primary focus will include hands-on skills development opportunities in the construction, industrial and motive power sectors, providing a better understanding of the apprenticeship system training and skills development model.

This innovative program will also include practical projects to explore career opportunities in aviation, manufacturing and material handling.

Interested participants must attend one of the following in-person information sessions:

- Wednesday, September 11 | 7pm
- Monday, September 16 | 6pm

City School Rapid Skills Training Lab
